What Are Green Seniors?

Green Seniors have always existed. They are the people who, regardless of age, fight for what they believe. They are the people who see the way that our natural environment is changing for the worse and want to do something about it. They are the people who are a pain in the neck of authority, in fact of anyone and anything that operates in a way that degrades the environment for no good reason.

There are 36 million people aged over 65 in the USA; in the United Kingdom there are 9 million; in Germany, 16 million; in Canada, 4 million; in France, 10 million. National elections have swung on a just a few hundred votes.

There is a very large group of people who have time to spare, and the motivation to change things for the better. They are the Green Seniors, and you could well be one of them, just by having taken the time to read this.

We at www.greenseniors.org believe that all that time and energy can make an impact where it is most needed, whether that be as an individual writing letters and informing friends; people acting together in a small community group to raise awareness of environmental issues, changing the behaviour of a town’s citizens or businesses; networks of people and groups spread across a large area, working together to ensure that state and national governments or multinationals listen to the concerns of ordinary people. In fact there is no limit to the number of ways that people can work together or alone - if the message is clear enough then things will change through your actions.

So tell the world that there is a way that everyone - whatever their age, whatever their ability - can reverse the damage we have done.

The Green Seniors are coming.
